QUEEN ANNE
HISTORY

The settlement of Queen Anne Hill began in the 1860s, with the founding of Seattle. In 1869, the first home was built at the foot of the hill by John Stewart, a Norwegian immigrant. In 1885, the hill was platted as a residential area. Over time, Queen Anne became a popular residential area due to its desirable location and views of the city. In the early 1900s, the area was known as "The Home of the Rich and the Famous." The hill was connected to the city by a trolley line in 1907, which helped to spur development.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

Queen Anne is a charming, residential community located on the north side of Seattle. The setting is a contrast between the modern urban landscape and the historic charm of the neighborhood. Queen Anne is known for its steep streets and hills, which are a result of the hilltop topography. The neighborhood is composed of a mix of older, historic homes and newer, modern developments.

Public transportation has always been a key feature of Queen Anne, with its steep streets and hills. The neighborhood is served by a bus stop on the hill, which connects to downtown Seattle. Queen Anne is also served by a number of parks, including Queen Anne Park and Queen Anne Hill Park. These parks are popular destinations for residents and visitors alike.
